Christianity is the world's most global faith. Evangelical Christianity, meanwhile, is the world's fastest growing major religion in terms of conversion growth. And yet, at the dawn of the third millennium, the church's primary task ("go and make disciples of all nations") remains undone. Missions in the Third Millennium charts 21 trends—both positive and negative—with continuing significance for the Great Commission community in the 21st century. Revised and updated with two new chapters on urban missions and evangelizing Muslims, this up-to-date volume offers insights to help students, churches, missionaries, agencies, and Christians from outside the West grasp the big picture and take practical steps for more effective involvement. This edition contains extensive notes, expanded suggestions for further reading, and discussion questions.

Research information source

By pzoo

I ordered this book as a source for a research paper for college. It is exactly what I needed and will now become one of my main sources for the topic of contextualization. This book would be excellent for the mission major, as at the end of each chapter, all sources are cited, great for a spidering search. My professor was excited about the book, as it is required reading before he begins his doctorate studies. I would recommend it to any missions student. Highly relevant information, you will definitely use it for any research.
